Fair Announces Tiny the Clown Will Be There

Tiny, the Musical Magical Clown, who plays the ukelele, makes animals — 75 different ones — from balloons and tears newspapers into interesting shapes, is coming to Monterey County Fair.

Tiny will be there, between the hours of noon and 6 p.m., tomorrow through Saturday.

In real life Tiny is James A. Payne of Santa Cruz. He has been entertaining children and adults with his clowning for more than 30 years at locations all over the United States. He has entertained on television and radio, as well as at meetings, birthday parties, fairs and shopping centers.

Clowning at Fair

What's a fair without a clown? "Nuttin'!" said John Paul Patch, 4, of Monterey, as "Tiny" the magical clown has fun with a "bee" on his red nose, during opening day of Monterey County Fair yesterday. The fair runs through Sunday. (Californian photo)
